

The Sackville Community Band Society

Keep The Music Alive Bursary

Application Deadline - May 1st

"Keep The Music Alive" (KTMA) is an initiative of the Sackville Community Band Society (SCBS). Most musicians in the SCBS learned to play their instruments in Junior and Senior High School. The Society is committed to helping the musicians of tomorrow by financially supporting young concert band musicians in the province of Nova Scotia.

The Sackville Community Band Society has established an annual bursary for concert band students attending Nova Scotia Junior and Senior High Schools. The Society will present up to four $250 bursaries (subject to available funding) to students demonstrating the desire and potential to succeed within the genre of traditional concert band music. The announcement of winners and presentations of the bursaries will be made at an annual KTMA Concert. Time and location of the concert will be listed on the Society's web site and announced through other media outlets and social media sources.

The "Keep The Music Alive" Bursary may be used to support activities such as (but not limited to):

- Instrument rental or purchase for students acquiring a better instrument in order to reach their musical potential;
- Financial assistance for Grade 12 students heading to university to attend an instrumental music program;
- Assistance for students to attend advanced study sessions, seminars and workshops with professional musicians;
- Assistance for students attending advanced band programs or camps; and
- Other band related musical initiatives as they arise.

The Sackville Community Band Society is a registered charitable organization. Supporters of the "Keep The Music Alive" fund will be provided receipts for tax purposes.
